

Rethinking Schools / La Educación Reinventada

Presents a talk with

Deborah Meier

“Good schools, like good societies and good families, celebrate and cherish diversity”

Meier has worked more than four decades in public education as a teacher, writer and public advocate. She founded and served as teacher-director of several innovative public schools that serve predominantly low-income African-American and Latino students. The schools are considered exemplars of reform nationally. In 1987, Meier received the prestigious MacArthur Fellowship. Her books include: The Power of Their Ideas (1995), In Schools We Trust (2002), Keeping School, with Ted and Nancy Sizer (2004) and Many Children Left Behind (2004).
